1) Money and Banking

The currency in China is the Renminbi, and is referred to as RMB or yuan. At time of writing, 1 RMB = 0.15 USD = 0.13 EUR. You may be able to exchange currency for renminbi outside of China. Arriving with some local currency is a good idea, but the exchange rate outside of China will not be favorable. Exchange money at the airport in China for a better rate.

Most international students in China withdraw money from their home bank account from an ATM in China. I recommend that you notify your bank of your travel to China, so you won't have any problems when you attempt to withdraw money from an ATM. Also, check with your bank about withdrawal fees because they can vary greatly.

It is rare for stores, restaurants, and even hotels to accept foreign debit and credit cards. When you arrive you will be almost entirely cash only until you have a Chinese bank account and bank card. The daily ATM withdrawal limit (at least for Ping An Bank on campus) is 20,000 RMB.

In order to open a bank account upon arrival, you will need to provide your home country tax number on paperwork for Ping An Bank. Please come prepared to present that tax number to staff members, without it you will not be able to open your bank account.

Bank transfers

Wire money transfers can take up to one month (and at least one week) to be processed, so make sure that you have money available while you wait for your transfer. Your campus card will come with a local Chinese bank account, Ping An Bank. When making a transfer, pay careful attention to all the banking account details for both the sender and receiver, transfers will be denied if any information is input incorrectly.

You also may choose to open a bank account at a larger bank. There are several banks near PKU Shenzhen where you can set up a bank account, at either a Chinese or an international bank (Standard Chartered, HSBC Premier, CitiBank and Bank of East Asia). On campus, there is a local bank, Ping An Bank and both Ping An Bank and Bank of China ATMs.

Traveler's checks

Many banks in Shenzhen accept Traveler's Checks in USD; however, it takes generally more than 40 working days to process them. We don't recommend Traveler's checks because of the lengthy processing time.

Western Union

Western Union provides a relatively cheap and very fast money transfer service. Students who have had difficulty transferring money or having a Chinese bank accept their foreign wire transfer, will use this service. Western Union agent stations include Postal Savings Banks in Shenzhen, or the Bank of China also offers money receiving service for Western Union.

Chinese Debit, Credit Cards, and WeChat Pay

It is nearly impossible for foreigners to get a Chinese credit card. However, you can easily get a Chinese debit card. Most Chinese debit cards belong to the “Unionpay” network, which is not typically accepted outside of China. Many students transfer money to their Chinese debit card to be able to easily withdraw money in China without incurring fees. You can use a debit card to make purchases at most larger Chinese stores, to withdraw money from ATMs and to shop online from Chinese companies. The campus card provided to you is also a Chinese debit card.

Nearly every basic consumer purchase in mainland China is made electronically through an e-wallet connected to the phone applications WeChat or Alipay. Or arrival day when you go to apply for a bank account, the staff will help you set up the electronic wallet and the WeChat pay function once your account is successfully opened.

Using a Credit Card from a Foreign Bank

Some foreign banks have partnerships with Chinese banks that allow withdraws without extra fees. For example, Bank of America has a partnership with Chinese Construction Bank. Talk with your bank to see if they have a partnership and consider opening an account at home. Sending money from a partner bank can also ease bank transfers.

Bringing Cash

The maximum amount you can bring in cash to China without declaring it is 5,000 USD (or equivalent in another currency) or 20,000RMB. This includes cash in all currencies together, so you cannot bring 5,000 USD plus 1,000 EUR. Besides the risk of carrying cash while travelling, please note that you might not be able to exchange the extra RMB back into your own currency when you leave China.

2) Payments and Document Verification

You should pay all expenses (housing, insurance, tuition) before your arrival by electronic wire transfer. Students that have not sent payment, must pay in RMB cash on the day of arrival (foreign bank cards are not accepted).

- Accommodation fees are as follows:

Accommodation Type	Per Semester
Single Room	6000 RMB
Double Room	3000 RMB

 300 RMB housing deposit that will be returned at the end of the program.*

- Tuition payment: dependent upon your scholarship status. If you are uncertain of your first-year tuition cost, please contact a staff member at your school. Not applicable to exchange students
- Insurance: 400 RMB per academic semester

Registration Day: PKU international students complete the registration procedures on registration day (the day after arrival day). Payment of expenses and your necessary documents will be checked at registration. If you are a fulltime degree-seeking student, you need to bring your original diploma to registration. If your original diploma is not in English or Chinese, you need to obtain a Certificate of Authentication from the Chinese Consulate. Please contact your corresponding school staffer or me as soon as possible about obtaining this document. Exchange students can also attend to receive housing receipt, PKU t-shirt, and photo for residence permit.

3) Arrival Expenses

You can expect to face the following expenses upon your arrival. Please prepare accordingly:

- Internet: 100 RMB for 5 months/200 RMB for 10 months (for the most basic speed)
- Campus card: 100 RMB to load onto card for payments on campus
- Residence permit and Health Check: approximately 1000 RMB for single semester students, 1400 RMB for full-time or year-long students
- Initial hot water and electricity payments: at least 30 RMB each (deducted from your Campus Card amount)
- Dormitory Furnishings: expenses vary (bed sheets, trash bins, pillows, etc.)
- Wire transfer exchange rate fluctuation compensation: Up to 300 RMB
- Living expenses: about 2,000-3,000 RMB/month, depending on your lifestyle

4) Health Insurance

Chinese Health Insurance

As students in China, you are required by law to subscribe to a local Chinese insurance plan. The Ministry of Education recommends using the Ping An Insurance plan, which covers accidental injuries, hospitalization (if you need to stay in a hospital for at least one night) and death. For full-time students, the cost of Ping An Insurance is 400 RMB/semester, and the school will apply for the insurance on your behalf and the cost is included on the invoice. You will be covered from your day of registration on the Ping An Insurance scheme.

International Health Insurance

The Ping An Foreign Students Group Insurance the school arranges for you to purchase covers outpatient care and some prescription medicines. After one 650RMB deductible, policy holders will be reimbursed 85% outpatient fees with a 600RMB daily limit and an accumulative limit of 20,000RMB. It does not cover pre-existing conditions.

Please refer to the insurance policy (English version) here and the claims guidelines here. You can view the website of the insurance company here (Plan 2 - should there be any discrepancies due to translation, the Chinese version will be considered as the legal version).

For more information on the Ping An Foreign Student Group Insurance Plan, you can call their 24/7 hotline 4008105119) or consult with your school's administrative staff for more information.

In general, basic medications, doctor visits and dental care are quite inexpensive in China. The Ping An Insurance and other local Chinese insurance will only cover hospitalization in a Chinese hospital (International English-speaking wards are also not covered). If you would like your insurance plan to cover private international hospitals or medical repatriation, you may want to consider also purchasing international or traveler's health insurance. These plans typically cover hospitalization and surgery in a private hospital and emergency evacuation to your home country. For more information on health care in China for foreigners, please visit:

<http://www.smartshanghai.com/articles/wellbeing/in-depth-the-ultimate-guide-to-health-insurance-in-china>

At registration, you will be required to prove that you are insured. We will also collect emergency contact numbers.

5) Average Cost of Life

In general, living in China is much more affordable than living almost anywhere in North America or Western Europe. That said, international students from other developing countries are often surprised by the cost of living in Shenzhen, and some do not allot the appropriate amount of money to support themselves for the duration of their studies at PKU Shenzhen.

Shenzhen is the most rapidly developing area in China, and one of the fastest growing in the world. Consequently, the area has experienced cost inflation to match the rising demand for housing, food, and other commodities. After Shanghai and Beijing, Shenzhen is the most expensive city in China. While the cost doesn't compare to the likes of developed countries, students should not misjudge the amount of living costs beyond tuition and housing.

Below is a brief list of up-to-date Shenzhen prices:

Meal on campus: 10-25 RMB (or around 45 for a Western meal)

Meal (per person) in an average Chinese restaurant: 20-50 RMB

Fancier Chinese restaurant: 100-250 RMB (30 for a vegetable dish, 70 for meat)

Western meal: 60-250 RMB

Fast-food: 20-30 RMB

Chinese beer: 5 RMB (supermarket)

Beer/drink in an expat bar: 35-60 RMB

Taxi (20 Minutes): 30 RMB - 10 RMB for the first 2km, then 2 RMB per extra 2.4 km.

Subway ticket: 2-8 RMB

Public bus ticket: 2-5 RMB

Small Refrigerator: 600-900 RMB

Electric stove: 250 RMB

Mattress: 900-1,500 RMB

Heater: 100-200 RMB

6) Accommodation

On the PKU Shenzhen website, you can take our campus tour to discover our campus and dorm rooms. We recommend that students live on campus, but it is not required. International students live in rooms that are 16 square meters, with a private bathroom¹ and a balcony. The majority of the rooms have 1.2 meter beds, double rooms have .9 meter beds. All international student rooms have a western style toilet, hot water and an air conditioner. The rooms come equipped with basic furniture including: a bed, chair, desk, wardrobe and bedside table.

All dormitory buildings have 24-hour security and surveillance. All students have a campus card that only allows residents entry into the dormitory building. The first floors of all dormitories have a laundry room with washing machines.

Students may live off campus if you so choose. The school doesn't provide accommodation outside campus and you will ultimately be responsible for negotiating your own off campus housing. However, we can advise you and recommend areas in Shenzhen.

Accommodation fees must be paid in full upon arrival to the Campus Service Center including a 300RMB deposit. Provided there are no damages to your room at the end of the year, this deposit will be returned to you in full upon check out. However, your cold water bill and the cost of any unreturned dorm materials (AC remote hot water card, etc.) will be deducted from your deposit. All students must sign a housing contract to live on campus.

You must register your residence within the first 24 hours of entering the country. This registration will be done online through the app WeChat. You may already have a WeChat (it is convenient for communication before arrival to China), but students often experience problems with WeChat accounts opened outside of China. It may be necessary to begin a new account once you arrive on campus. For students living on campus there will be a QR code on the door of your room for you to use in order to register. For instructions on how to register, please refer to this document. Do not attempt to register before your arrival.

Utilities are paid separately from your accommodation fees. Hot water and electricity are pre-paid through an on-campus rechargeable machine available from 7:00 AM to around 10:30 PM. Depending on your personal habits, utilities are typically 400-500 RMB for about 4 weeks of electricity (for peak A/C season); but around 50RMB for cooler months; these numbers vary with the weather and your own usage. For hot water, 100 RMB usually lasts about 2 months. Cold water is about 20 RMB per month.

7) Academic Calendar

The Peking University Shenzhen Graduate School Academic Calendar can be found online. Please note that the School of Translational Law and HSBC Business School have their own academic calendar, this is only the general calendar for the university.

8) Weather

Shenzhen has a warm subtropical climate. Winters are fairly mild and dry with average temperatures 11-16C

¹ Despite what may be pictured in the virtual campus tour, all international student dorm rooms have Western (seated) toilets rather than squat toilets.

(51-60F). The rainy season in Shenzhen lasts from April until October with its peak in the summer. Summers are quite hot and humid with temperatures 29-36C (80-95F).

9) Packing List

You will be able to find most everything that you will need in China. Clothes, toiletries, shoes, cell phones etc. are relatively inexpensive. Shenzhen has many international stores such as H&M, Decathlon, Ikea and UniQlo. However, some things can be harder to find.

Some recommendations on what to bring to China:

- Lightweight clothes. Inexpensive clothes can be found, but most international clothing brands are more expensive in China. If you need larger sizes (especially for shoes or pants) you will find suitable sizes hard to find. There are also many affordable tailors.
- Cosmetics and personal hygiene products. Foreign brand cosmetics are typically more expensive. Take a few samples of your favorite brands, as you may have difficulties finding the same products in China. Feminine hygiene products of one's liking can be tricky to find as well.
- Mementos and photos from home
- Small gifts. Gift giving is very prominent in Chinese culture. Chinese friends will always appreciate something that you have brought from home to share.
- Bug Spray, sunscreen, antiperspirant. Will likely be cheaper in your home country
- Prescription or name brand medications. You may not be able to find the same brand of medication in China. It is also helpful to bring basic medicines, such as ibuprofen, cold medicine, anti-diarrhea medicine, etc.
- Books in your native language or an Electronic book reader

10) Communication

Mobile phone

There are almost a billion mobile phone users in China – many of people use prepaid top up cards sold at most of the small convenience stores and phone shops in the city. However, annual and semi-annual 4G plans are also available to those with unlocked mobile phones. The two major Chinese mobile network providers, China Unicom and China Mobile, have multiple store locations around Shenzhen, though very few have English speaking staff. Students will be provided with a China Mobile SIM card upon their arrival to campus (please have your admission letter and passport prepared). You can purchase or upgrade to different data plans after you receive your SIM card.

Note: It is recommended to NOT bring an Android phone to use in mainland China. The block on Google services will stop you from downloading apps and using many services.

Voice Over Internet Protocol (VOIP)

Services such as Skype on mobile phones are quite popular, as the rates are very cheap. The only drawback is the lack of internet speed at peak times of use for the shared campus wireless internet.

Internet

On-campus internet is fairly reliable and comes at a low cost to students. The basic speed is 20rmb per month, and higher speed connection plans can be purchased as well. Once a student has received his/her Username and Password, the internet will be available for use on a 24-hour basis. Internet in the dormitories can be accessed with a personal router or Ethernet cable. Campus Internet is free for the first two weeks after registration.

There are many major online services and popular websites that are blocked inside China. Please be aware that internet users in mainland China cannot access the following: social media - including Facebook, Instagram, and Pinterest; Google services - including search, Maps, email, and Drive; major news and entertainment providers - including Netflix, HBO, BBC, NYT, and YouTube; and various other websites. We suggest you do proper research and preparation for being able to ensure a smooth transition and be comfortable, connected, and have access to your important information before arrival in China.

11) Culture Shock

Culture shock can be an unexpected issue when living in a foreign country. Most foreigners do experience a degree of culture shock even if they don't realize it. If you are familiar with the stages of culture shock, you will be better prepared on how to cope with adapting to a new culture. Living in China can pose new challenges even for seasoned travelers. The four stages of culture shock that you may experience: the honeymoon stage of initial euphoria, withdrawal and irritability, adjustment phase, and finally adaption and acceptance.

13) Learning Chinese

PKU Shenzhen has basic Chinese class offerings for enrolled students. These courses are included in the cost of tuition. Learning Mandarin Chinese while in China can also help you with cultural integration and adjusting to culture shock. Coursework is not intensive, so students looking to improve their Chinese more quickly can also take advantage of language exchange partners.

In addition, we recommend investigating these resources:

Chinese Pod: A great online resource of podcasts and lessons. This is my main resource for studying Chinese, but they have recently lost a lot of staff and are in a transitional phase. There is a large selection of free lessons for you to check out to get a feel for the service. I have found it far more productive than a traditional textbook.
